City Auditor Leads Mrs. Whittemore to Altar.

WEDDING WAS KEPT QUIET

HAPPY PAIR NOW AT CASTILLA SPRINGS.

Twain Made One By George E. Blair Last Wednesday Night at the Residence of the Bride's Sister— Story of the Courtship-Auditor Pulled Wool Over Council's Eyes.

Cupid has played another of his justly celebrated pranks. The latest willing victims of the serene little god are City Auditor George Swan and Mrs. Catherine T. Whittemore. The twain were made one by Elder George E. were made one by Elder George E. Blair at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. M. J. Hardin, 119 West First North street, last Wednesday night. The happy pair departed the next morning for Castilla Springs, where the honeymoon will be spent. They will remain at the resort for a week before coming home to receive congranulations.

The course of true love has been running smoothly for Auditor Swan during the last year or so. There may have been an obstacle or two, but they went down "like grass before the more was smoothly more was Story of the Courtship.

Story of the Courtship.

For several years Mr. Swan has belonged to that forforn class of mortals known as widowers. In the evening of his life he found himself obliged to sew on his own buttons or use naths. His socks went undarned and his trousers were sent to a tailor to be mended. It was not long after he entered into this unhappy condition that Mr. Swan went to the Hailroad Exchange hotel to board.

The hotel had been established by Captain Benjamin F. Whittenore, first husband of Mr. Swan's bride. Captain whittenore also opened the Grand Pacific hotel and Mr. Swan's bride. Captain whittenore, and he believed she would not let him suffer.

So it proved. The choicest morsels somehow found their way to the auditor's plate. His washing was looked after, his material wants were supplied. Gradually he came to feel that his life would be a decary desert unless he could insince Mrs. Whittenore to share it. He mentioned the subject to her, and to his great joy meta sympathetic response. Wanted Quiet Wedding.

Then Mr. Swan began to have some troubles. He wanted to marry Mrs. Whittenore, but he didn't want any notoriety about it. So he donned his thinking cap and proceeded to figure it out. At lost he hit on a aban.

A few weeks ago he sent a note to the council, asking for a leave of absence until August on account of "liness and overwork." The council was too innocent to suppose that Cupid had dictated that note. The members sympathised with soor Mr. Swan and said to one another: "It an ouse talking; the old man is working too hard. He needs a rest and we ought to give it to him."

Accordingly the leave of absence was granted and Mr. Swan's son, Pouglas, was installed as deputy to serve until his father got "rested." The auditor chuckied, for things were coming his way. He and Mrs. Whittemore quietly made their preparations, George Blair was let into the secret and last Wedneeday night came the consummation.

and last wetherday hight came the consummation.

Mr. and Mrs. Swan's friends are hardly limited by the city's population. Both of them are known and liked in wide circles of acquaintances, who will wish them all kinds of good luck in their journey through life together. The return of the happy bride and groom will be awaited with eagerness by all who know them.

The clearing house banks were all closed at 12 o'clock yesterday as agreed upon. There were some complaints especially among country people who had not been advised of the new order, but these were few in number, and were enaily accommodated by the mercinants with whom they traded. The Desert National is not well satisfied with the new order. It will try it for a time as an experiment and if no better satisfied then will withdraw from the clearing boose and keep open as here-tofore. The movement for a mid-week holiday for the retail stores was given a black eye by the recent action of the Retail Clerks' association, and it is thought that nothing can be accomplished in the matter this season. The movement had its best friends in the labor organization.

Second West Is the Lucky Person.

Perhaps one of the greatest records for speed in the newspaper line is the feat performed by Joseph Brown, who succeeded in securing enough subscribers to The Herald to entitle him to a wheel in the short space of four hours. This attests two things: First, that young Brown posseries good "rustling" abilities, and, second, that The Herald is fast being recognized as the best paper in Utah. Another point that Brown insisted on was that the wheel should be a Cleveland, and The Herald was just as anxious that he should have it, for a person performing such a feat earned the best-the Cleveland.
